Scouts, Cubs salute their founder

Elk Point's Scouts and Cubs were joined by their leaders, families and special guests for last Wednesday's celebration of the birthday of Scouting's founder, Lord Baden-Powell, with their annual family banquet.

Seventeen Cubs and five Scouts, along with their leaders, opened the banquet with a color parade and the singing of O Canada, following a welcome by Group Committee chairman Ian Huffman. Grace was offered by Pastor Jim McLellan before members and guests enjoyed a fine meal featuring roast pork donated by the Flanders family.

Guest speaker for the evening was Fraser McDougall, President of Scouts Canada's Northern Alberta Region. McDougall has been involved in Scouting for 26 years, starting as a Cub leader in Vegreville and working his way up through the ranks. His message for the Scouts and Cubs dealt with this summer's Alberta Jamboree in Kananaskis, which has 2100 Scouts registered for an exciting range of activities, from a computer workshop to a forest challenge. He told the younger members that Cub groups can visit the jamboree for a day to join in the fun. The Jamboree is "the culmination of the Scouting year... and a great adventure."

Presentations were made to various Friends of Scouting, including their sponsors, the Elk Point Lions Club, financial auditor Lawrence Modin, auctioneer Walter Skolarchuk, the Town of Elk Point, Dave and Alice Yake and Pineridge Oilfield Services. The latter three were involved in the sandbag project.

Scouting leaders Bernie Korpan, Jerome Keichinger, Kelly Sibley and Tim Zarowny were thanked for their efforts as well.

Master of Ceremonies Michael Povaschuk thanked the parents in the Group Committee, which includes Ian Huffman, Gloria Zarowny, Susan MacKinnon and Laurie Keichinger. Huffman in turn thanked all those who helped with the construction of the Scout Hill building, which is nearing completion and which was built totally with volunteer labor.

Scout leader Tim Zarowny added his thanks, and noted that "volunteers make the community." He added that those who do volunteer, get satisfaction in return.

A presentation by the Cubs began with the investiture of a new Cub, David Routhier, and continued with several skits. More skits came from the Scouts, along with some entertaining songs.

The evening ended with the auction of cakes decorated by the boys and their fathers, with the top selling cake going for an even $100.

Town supports Fidler stamp

Elk Point Town Council has agreed to support the initiative of another community much influenced by fur trader and explorer Peter Fidler in their bid to have Fidler honored on a commemorative postage stamp.

The Town was approached by Fort Dauphin Museum in Dauphin, Manitoba, who hope to see the stamp issued during 1998, the Town of Dauphin's 100th anniversary of incorporation. The museum board is also approaching Meadow Lake, Saskatchewan, another community where many Fidler descendants reside. They hope to have the three communities as the only First Day Issue centres in Canada, or at the very least, to have special cancellations for each of those centres.

Council was also supportive of Calgary's bid for the 20005 World's Fair, and will send a letter in that regard.

A bylaw is required under the new Municipal Government Act to establish an Assessment Review Board. Elk Point's bylaw was given all three readings at last Tuesday's meeting.

The arrival of springlike weather may have had something to do with the tabling of the off-highway vehicles bylaw, although the Town had received one snowmobile complaint that very day. However, it was decided to postpone passage until the local RCMP could be on hand to discuss the new bylaw with Council.

Councillor Louis Verhagen reported that Colleen Simon is the new head of the FCSS Board, and that two new members, Lang Ellison and John Humphrey, have applied to fill vacancies on the board.

Although Elk Point no longer has a recreation department, they will join the North East Alberta Recreation Association, as it still will benefit the community.

Talented teens to perform in Friday's Quest

Elk Point has a treat in store on Friday, March 3, when talented teens from across northeast Alberta compete at the Youth Talent Quest, for an array of prizes topped by the opportunity to record a demonstration tape. The event stars at 7 p.m. at the Elks Hall.

Those who attended last year's Talent Quest will remember the exciting evening of entertainment, as a long lineup of young people displayed an amazing range of talent for an enthusiastic audience. This year's Quest promises to be more of the same, and even better - an event no music lover will want to miss out on.

Vocalists, musicians, dancers and variety performers will also have the opportunity to win cash prizes and the right to compete at Klondike Days this July. The winner from Klondike Days heads down to Memphis, Tennessee, for international talent competition.

Entry forms are available at local high schools.

In addition to an evening of great entertainment, the audience will qualify for numerous door prize draws.

A teen dance, with music provided by Travis Pankiw both as singer and DJ, and a lunch provided by the Bantam and Midget hockey team parents, will round out the evening.

Wild Rose Foundation aids volunteer groups

Volunteers from Elk Point and surrounding regions were given a valuable insight into the purposes and programs of Alberta's Wild Rose Foundation. This Alberta Government lottery funded foundation provides funding to volunteer, non-profit organizations that provide valuable services to Albertans, fosters and promotes the use of volunteers, assists those who volunteer or use the services of volunteers, and fosters charitable, philanthropic, humanitarian or public spirited acts and those who perform them.

Among the projects funded locally by the Foundation is the Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre, site of last Friday's information meeting, which benefitted by a $50,000 grant at the time it was being established.

Larry Langager of St. Paul is a member of the Wild Rose Foundation Board. He explained that the Foundation received $6.6 million from Alberta Lotteries last year, and he feels that "we can do a lot of good with our share."

The mandate of the Foundation goes further than providing grants for programs, capital development or purchase and operational assistance. They also sponsor the Vitalize Provincial Volunteer Conference, sponsor a volunteer exchange program with Hokkaido, Japan, and support an international development program to aid the less fortunate in less developed countries. In 1994, they funded a special initiative in collaboration with the Premier's Council in Support of Alberta's Families to fund various parts of the International Year of the Family observances. Another facet of the Foundation is facilitating and coordination of Volunteer Week, in conjunction with Volunteer Alberta.

The grant program itself was explained by John Kopeck. Grants are available to organizations which have been active for 1 year or more, which are registered as a non-profit society or are in the process of becoming registered, which have strong volunteer components and strong community fundraising ability, and which demonstrate a need for a specific project. The group must also provide a necessary, valuable service to the community. Sport and religious organizations are not eligible. Educational institutions and hospitals aren't either, but school parent advisory councils and hospital auxiliaries are. A group can apply for a grant every three years.

Grants range from $500 to $50,000, with a 100% community fundraising match, part of which may be volunteer hours, valued at $10 per hour. For each $10 million in grants provided by the Foundation, 30 million volunteer hours have been spent and $40 million raised in communities. "We look at it as an investment," Kopeck said.

From January 1, 1993 to September 30, 1994, 130 communities benefitted from the grants.

Strong families share values - how values lead to action

Last week we looked at how our actions reflect our values and how children learn what they live. This week let's look at how values lead to action and provide direction and what your values are saying about you!

Values Lead to Actions: Values (the ideas of what is right or good or best) are a significant part of our culture. They represent the quality, situations, and things we hold dear; the times that we prize, cherish, and what we strive for; the things we reward. You teach by your actions. If you want to teach the value that "older people are important," do you allocate time as a family visiting and doing things with older persons? If having a family prayer at mealtime is an important value of yours, how is that affected by eating out often?

Values Provide Direction: Values have varying degrees of strength. Some are high on our list and are musts. Others are lower - preferred, but not essential.

For the individual, values help provide direction and meaning to life. They influence behavior in the sense that they help give a basis by which to make decisions, to choose goals to work for and to make choices among possible paths to a goal.

Groups need values too. Shared values serve as a bond among members of a group. They help provide the group with a common direction, some common goals, some acceptable ways of behaving, and some reason for being.

Your Values Are Showing! Because most values are intangible, many people find them difficult to discuss or sometimes even think about. That doesn't mean values aren't important. Values become visible and easier to identify when we talk, think or act. Values also become visible in the way we use our time for work or leisure activities, or the way we make choices as we live day-by-day.

Here are some important points to remember about values:

* When we chose values, several alternatives are available.

* We do not live in isolation, and so we do not choose values completely by ourselves.

* Values compete with one another.

Consider what your values are saying about you. Research studies show strong families generally share similar values.

NEED A HAND WITH YOUR TAXES?

Need a hand with your taxes? Volunteers are available to help. It is a FREE service. And, who knows, you may find the government owes you some money! Find out by having a volunteer fill out a tax return for you. This service is only available for those who need a little assistance with straightforward tax returns. All information is kept strictly confidential. For more information to get volunteer assistance, call FCSS at 724-3800.

BABYSITTING COURSE

A babysitting course is tentatively scheduled for April 3, 5 and 6. Participants must be 11 years of age or older. This is a St. John's Ambulance instructed course with approximately 7 hours of instruction. Participants will learn simple first aid, what to do in an emergency, what type of information they should get from the parent they are babysitting for, feeding techniques, and bathing techniques. Dates, costs and location will be confirmed at a later date.

For more information or to register, call Lynn at 724-3800.

INTRODUCTION TO PERSONAL RE-PARENTING

Each of us was once a child. The child we were lives on within us affecting our present day experiences and behaviors. If our basic needs were not met in childhood we often continue to seek ways to satisfy them as adults. The focus of this workshop is to connect you with your child. If you are interested in developing a relationship with the child you once were, consider joining us on March 4 and 5 in Bonnyville. Preregistration is required due to limited seating. For more information please call Lynne Jackson at 825-7827.

Traffic accidents on the rise

By Sgt. John Humphrey
Elk Point Detachment, RCMP

The Town of Elk Point has seen a doubling of traffic accidents in 1994 when compared to the statistics from 1993. Luckily, there have been no fatalities within the town limits, however last year there were three injuries recorded. Most of the accidents are preventable. With a little more caution and by observing the rules of the road we will be able to drastically reduce the number of accidents in the future. This will ultimately positively impact upon us all by preventing suffering to those potential victims, and reducing medical and repair costs.

Concern has been expressed by Town Council and the Elk Point Community Advisory Committee concerning the number of traffic infractions in town. The most common offenses observed are "U" turns between intersections, backing when unsafe to do so, not stopping properly at stop signs, driving left of centre to park, speeding, and failing to wear seatbelts. Most of these may seem trivial and unimportant to some people, but the fact of the matter is that drivers become careless and the quality of driving habits declines.

With the support of Town

Council and the Community Advisory Committee, the RCMP will be stepping up the enforcement of driving offenses.

It is everyone's responsibility to keep our town safe, so please make the effort and help to reduce the number of accidents by driving by the rules.

Funding the freedom

This is Freedom to Read Week.

We are very fortunate to live in a country where we have the freedom to read whatever book or periodical we wish, without fear of reprisal for doing so, at least as long as you do it in the appropriate place.

One appropriate place for reading is your library, which is also a primary source of reading material of many, many kinds, whether you like best-sellers or western paperbacks, classics or children's tales. All those and more, along with the librarian to help you find them, are made possible by funding from various sources: the Province, the Town (who provide operating funds for the building itself as well as money toward the Northern Lights Library System), the County, the library members, a variety of corporate and individual donors, and the Friends.

The Friends of the Library are the kind of friends everyone needs. Over the past year they marshalled their forces to run 5 bingos, and presented the library with $8500, which will help considerably to cope with rising expenses and shrinking grants.

Another group that helps stretch the budget is the Northern Lights Library System, who not only can buy more books for the same money than an individual library could, but who also process them so they are shelf-ready, and save many hours of labor, and thus expense, in the library. Membership in NLLS is jointly paid by the library and the Town, and therefore, regrettably, those who live out of town have to pay their own NLLS fee. This is not the library's fault, or that of the Town. Also, one must remember that if the County saw fit to join, so rural residents would not have to pay extra, they might also see fit to increase rural taxes again. This way, those who read, pay, and those who don't are not encumbered.

Even if you do pay, you get your money's worth. The $24 per person or $48 per family allows you to read every book in the library, view all the videos, listen to all the tapes, and read every single magazine - and even the Elk Point Review. With magazines over $2, paperbacks in the $3.95 range, movie rentals around $2, and hardcover books way up there at $10 to $50 or more, it really isn't that much, considering the enjoyment you can get from all that material. (Much cheaper than cable TV, too, which you might indulge in if you lived in town.)

This freedom has a price, whether you pay it directly, through your taxes, or through buying bingo cards. The freedom to read is still worth paying for.

Spotlight on Volunteers

Red Cross - a leg to stand on

By Irene Magnusson
Review Contributor

Elk Point and area residents have long been familiar with Red Cross, and the works it is involved with in our area, our province, our country and around the world.

As with many familiar things, we are most aware of those we are involved in - or with.

So the active group - mostly women, although a few men have joined the ranks over the years - who meet monthly, who promote and execute a lively Tea and Bazaar annually, who create beautiful articles (quilts, rugs, etc.) to raffle (and then sell the tickets!), and those brave souls who venture forth in the Annual Canvass of March - come snow or high water - these are the most aware, the most deeply involved.

Just to mention a few who were active in local Red Cross, in the past have century, we can list Dr. Weigerinck, 'Buzzy' Pelechovsky, Nellie Rushfeldt, Elsie Babcock, Ronald Flanders, Kitty Garneau, Emily Appleton, Martha Zarowny, Violet Smith, Florence McGinnis, Marian Smith, Violet McFadyen (who spent 25 years as Chairman), Hazel Hannah, Estella Young, Lawrence Modin, Margaret Modin, plus many, many more, who have given their time and energy to this worthy cause, with little thought to the work involved, only a hope to help the needy.

Dozens of warm, useful - and yes, beautiful - quilts have been created by these willing, skilful hands, turning odds and ends and scraps of materials of use to no one, into comfort and hope to the cold and destitute - often victims of fire or flood - at not cost to the recipients.

These "quilting bees" serve a triple need: to create useful articles from used materials (recycling); to bring comfort to the needy; and to bring neighbors together, to work, visit, laugh and talk, members who are often in need of companionship, too.

These gatherings, for many years held in members' homes, have recently been convened in the United Church Hall, graciously offered, gratefully accepted, with room to store the quilt frames. Often tow quilts are tied at the same time. Ideas, suggestions, plans are freely exchanged, with the uplift of sharing mutual goals enjoyed by all.

Occasionally, a special tribute is offered, as last week: over a dozen members gathered at her home to honor Estella Young, who, no longer able to attend meetings or quilt, still offers her services as the 'phoning committee,' notifying members of coming events - a most useful effort. In appreciation, Mrs. Young was presented with a signed-by-all card, and a lovely floral basket, created by member Dorothy Malinowski.

A few statistics about the Elk Point Red Cross activities show a total of eight quilts assembled, 3 of which were sold, in 1994.

A Tea, Bazaar and Bake

Sale was held in the fall, $1000 remitted to Head Office.

A hand-stitched quilt was created from new materials and raffled, along with other handmade items, for a total of $979.

A display on Information Night of nine quilts created; one of these was donated for a draw at the First Night Festival, December 31.

Members charted 1500 to 2000 hours of volunteer time to Red Cross in 1994.

A total of 60 canvassers covered the Elk Point and District area in March 1994, $9032.50 was collected and forwarded to Red Cross.

The Elk Point and District head of the March Red Cross Canvass is Margaret White of Elk Point. Materials and information will be distributed soon.

Chairperson of Elk Point Red Cross is Jean McGinnis; Secretary is Margaret Modin. Meetings are (usually) held on the first Monday of each month, at which time the quilts are tied. The February meeting was held at Parkview Nursing Home, with a good turnout. One quilt, pieced by Iryne Buck, was tied. The March meeting will again be at Parkview, 1:00 p.m.; hopefully a quilt or two will be assembled.

The March Canvass for Red Cross is being planned; please give generously when the canvasser comes to your door. The need is still great. Red Cross is often the only source for that extra "leg to stand on," that many unfortunates need.

F.G. Miller parents' council gives response to position paper

By Rob Desjardins

St. Paul Journal

F. G. Miller's Education Support Council has sent a clear message to Alberta Education: its position paper on roles and responsibilities in education isn't clear enough.

The paper, which was released in December and which will help shape regulations under the province's new School Act, includes a proposal to give widely-enhanced powers to local parents' councils — including the right to get involved with setting budgets and hiring staff.

At their February meeting, members of the council unanimously approved a draft letter from chairperson Donna Bassett which seeks more information on the proposed regulations — and sufficient time for council members to digest it. "We're feeling a little overwhelmed," Bassett told other participants. "So much is expected of all of us by the end of the year. It looks good on paper, but there are a lot of ramifications."

In her letter, Bassett suggests the government hold an in-service information session for council members, "before any decisions are made."

She also asks the department to clarify or comment on a number of items, including:

- * the dangers of a council being "co-opted by a special interest group which does not represent the community at large;"

- * the possible legal risks council members would face;

- * the definition of a "parent" including a clarification as to whether parents must have custody of students in order to vote for council members;

- * the necessity for councils to advertise their meetings, so members of the public and other parents can attend as observers.

During the meeting, some parents said they were concerned that electing a small voting executive would lessen other parents' ability to shape and direct their children's education.

"I think we'll need to set up another group where we can just meet with teachers, parents and students to talk — just like our (support council) has been in the past," said one parent.

F. G. Miller principal Jim Hawkins agreed, saying the new format may mean "a change for the worse. We may have another group functioning like the Board of Education. I prefer the idea of a forum, like we've always had."

Hawkins suggested the council might choose to have two-phased meetings, in which part of the time is spent in open discussion.

The Council will continue to discuss the role at upcoming meetings. Copies of the position paper, called Roles and Responsibilities in Education, as well as a recent discussion paper on accountability in education, are available at the FGM school office for any parents who are interested.

Lois Yaremkevich of the Elk Point OORP visited the school to present cash prizes to (left to right) Leanne Wilson, $50; Jennifer Kalynchuk, $30; and Alyssa Fry, $20.

WATER LEGISLATION REVIEW NEXT STEPS

ALBERTANS HAVE SPOKEN

Approximately 1500 Albertans attended a series of public meetings recently held on draft water management policy and legislation. You sent some powerful messages. Here are just a few: "No water tax now or in the future"; "No export of water outside of Canada"; and "Revisit the definition and quantity of water for 'household and related purposes'."

As Minister of Environmental Protection I want to thank everyone who attended public meetings, sent written submissions to the Water Legislation Review Committee, or telephoned their MLA or myself. We asked to hear from you and you responded. We appreciate your comments. Your input will form the basis for recommendations which the review committee is expected to submit to me by May 31, 1995.

Revisions to the draft legislation will be made to reflect your input. Over the summer a new water management bill will be drafted, which I expect to introduce in the Legislature this fall. Your MLA will have the opportunity to vigorously debate the water bill in the Legislature before this government considers passing a new water management law — which would occur no sooner than the Spring of 1996.

In the meantime, I want to assure you that:

- No decisions will be made until this government is confident that the proposed law reflects your expectations and needs.
- There will be no new taxes or fees on water. There never has been a tax on water, nor will there be in the future under this government.
- This government will remain firm in its commitment to prohibit the export of water to the United States.
- Your comments about the proper definition and quantity of water for 'household and related purposes' will be fully discussed.

Further comments on the draft legislation can be forwarded to the Water Management Review Committee, c/o Alberta Environmental Protection, Oxbridge Place, 3rd Floor, 9820 - 106 Street, Edmonton, AB T5K 2J6, or call toll free 1-800-661-5586.

I wish to personally thank everyone who took the time and effort to participate in this important discussion. Your input is vital to making the sound decisions that you expect from your government.

The Business Beat

Meat processors win award

The Hallwachs family of Lakeland Meat Processors of Elk Point are the proud recipients of an award presented at the Western Canadian Meat Processors Convention and Trade Show, held February 17 to 19 in Banff.

They placed third in the Garlic Sausage competition against some stiff competition. "We beat guys with really nice smokehouses," and bigger operations, Ralph Hallwachs said. Wife and partner Claire said she was "shocked" to hear their name announced as an award winner. Both are very pleased and proud to have their business so honored.

The convention featured presentations on consumer marketing, packaging and its influence on quality and storage life, cooking and smoking, and fresh sausage manufacturing. The main meeting centred on government "stepping on the meat industry," Mrs. Hallwachs said. "The processors want to set the rules before the government does [regarding such factors as meat inspection]. We want to get some input into the decisions."

Lots of potential for personalized financial planning

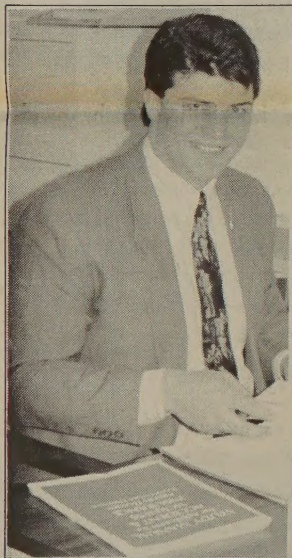

Brent Becker of Investors Group feels there is "lots of potential" for financial planning in the Elk Point area. That is why he expanded the part-time office he established last October to full-time operation in January.

Located in the Lakeland Realty office, Becker offers everything from RSPs to mutual funds, from personal and group insurance to retirement and financial planning to his clients on behalf of the 55-year-old company.

Clients can either come to his office, or he will go to them. "It's have car - will travel. I like to meet people where they feel comfortable." That means traveling from Marwayne to Two Hills, Myrnam and St. Paul, and a lot of evening work. However, it is closer than coming from his previous office in Wetaskiwin to take care of clients in this area before he and his wife, the former Carrie Stafford, moved to her home town of Elk Point.

Becker is trained to do financial planning and help his clients determine what would be the most advantageous moves for long term gain, with "personal service our specialty."

A SALUTE TO THE LAND WE LOVE

"The way I look at wildlife is . . . it's just part of the link in the chain. You take away one link and you haven't got a chain anymore. You've got two pieces and they don't work like they used to as one. It's part of the way things are and I think it's the way we ought to keep it."

— Alberta rancher, Bob Drury

Agriculture is more than an industry or a business. It is a way of life. Personal experiences - like the honk of the geese flying high over the farm yard on a crisp October morning . . . a white-tailed deer fawn lying hidden in a hayfield or the glimpse of spring's first bluebird flashing his colour from a fencewire perch are personal experiences that instantly, almost magically, connect us to the land.

That is why today, sustainable agriculture practices are being directed towards conserving and improving the long-term health of the land, while providing a more diverse and productive landscape for wildlife. After all, wildlife - as part of our rural heritage - is part of the land we love.

This is the vision and mission of the partners of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan and the Alberta Prairie CARE program.

HEINSBURG SCHOOL RECIEVES $9000 GRANT - These happy students of Heinsburg School are among the young people who will benefit from a $9000 grant received from the Alberta Sport Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation, which with financial help from the County of St. Paul, went toward paving the outdoor skating rink. The Foundation is funded from lottery revenue and its grants provide needed assistance for large and small projects in communities across Alberta. Heinsburg is one of the many directly benefitting from this method of lottery dollar disbursement. On behalf of the school and surrounding communities, a heartfelt thank you is in order.

Happy Trails lead to Spring Park Jamboree

By Faye Smith

Review Staff

The Happy Trails Jamboree was held in Spring Park Hall on Saturday, February 25. The program started at 8:00 p.m. and continued until almost midnight.

There were a total of 22 different performers, with lots of singers and guitar pickers. We were also entertained by "Old Jake" and Roy Scott who read some extremely funny poetry. Scott also played the mule bones and spoons.

It was a homecoming for Mildred Pratton (who was once a Koppang) and her daughter Vicki who sang together and did very well.

Several of the acts were of home town persuasion, with locals "Three of a Kind," Andrew Pearson, Arne Price, who did a wonderful rendition of "Oh Lord, It's Hard to be Humble," plus Roy Scott and "Old Jake."

The performers came from as far away as Mayerthorpe, Barrhead and Morinville, just to name a few of the places.

It was certainly a delightful evening for all. The next Jamboree at Spring Park is scheduled for April 22 at 8:00 p.m.

Frog Lake comes out on top in floor hockey tourney

By David Daniels

Heinsburg School reporter

Even though we had teachers' convention last week, Heinsburg School was abuzz with activity. The Class of '95 sponsored a chili sale, we had an Elementary floor hockey tournament, and the senior boys' basketball team continued to move forward.

The chili sale was a great success for the Class of '95 who are working hard to raise money for grad. The Heinsburg Grad is on June 2 and promises to be an exciting event.

The Elementary floor hockey tournament was won by Frog Lake. Placings were determined by total goals rather than wins. The champions beat J. F. Dion 5-4 and Heinsburg 4-1 for a total of nine goals. The Heinsburg - Fishing Lake game was a real battle with Heinsburg coming out on top 2-1. When all the goals were tallied up, Frog Lake won with 9 goals, J.F. Dion was second with 5 goals and the hosts came third with 3 goals.

The Heinsburg Eagles senior boys' basketball team is continuing to improve. They have been practicing hard for the last two weeks in preparation for a tournament in Kitscoty this weekend. Other than that, they are looking forward to Zones next month.

That's it for this week!

Study skills workshop at F. G. Miller

By Kelly Oszust

F.G. Miller High School

The three Grade 7 classes have been experiencing workshops in good study habits. So far there have been two workshops and there is one still left. These workshops have been taking place each Tuesday in Period 8.

The purpose of these workshops is to help the Grade 7 classes develop good study habits from the beginning.

The students that have been helping with the program are Justin Conrad, Christina Sereda, Carrie Baumgardner and Jaylene Purdy. These students pass on their study habits, such as where to study, how to take good notes and how to pay attention in class. "A desk where there are no distractions is a good place to study," says Christina Sereda.

Mr. Hellquist, Mr. Franko and Ms Ziomek are involved in this highly important program as well.

Screen Test: a chance for Alberta women to beat breast cancer

Breast cancer continues to be a major health threat for Alberta women. In Canada, it is the leading cause of years of life lost and the most frequent cause of cancer death. The question all of us would like to answer, of course, is how healthy women could avoid getting breast cancer. Unfortunately, there is still much work to be done before we have helpful answers to this question. However, we do know that healthy women can greatly reduce their chances of dying from breast cancer through a program of early detection.

Early detection, for women over the age of 50, has three parts:

- * breast self-examination
- * examination of the breast by a physician or trained health professional, and
- * mammography, or an x-ray of the breast every two years.

While mammography has only been found to be useful in preventing cancer deaths in women over the age of 50, this is also the age group that is most at risk for breast cancer.

In Alberta, Screen Test: The Alberta Program for the Early Detection of Breast Cancer, was inaugurated in 1990 specifically to provide early detection services to Alberta women. An important part of the Screen Test program is our mobile service, which brings high quality mammography to women living outside of the major cities. The program's goal is to decrease breast cancer deaths by 30 percent among women in the target age group.

Over the past four years, Screen Test has seen 43,000 women. The mobile program, which has been operating for only the past three years, has seen 7800 women. The program provides breast self-examination education and high quality mammography to women, and the mobile program works in close collaboration with the health units and community volunteer groups to deliver the service in the best way for each community.

How has the program done? To date, the program meets or exceeds every international standard for screening programs. One important marker, for example is the abnormality rate - the number of women who are referred for further tests or follow-up on the basis of the screening exam. A good program will keep this number to a minimum, while still finding the most number of cancers possible. The Screen Test program has an abnormality rate of 4.5%, which is the lowest of any screening program in Canada. Another marker is the program's ability to find early cancers at the expected rate. While no woman would like to be told she has breast cancer, the program's goal is to find the cancer so early that the cure of the breast cancer is extremely likely. Thus, a successful program needs to find as many small cancers as possible. Again, Screen Test's rate of cancer detection is higher than international standards expect - for every thousand women screened, about 7 cancers are found. Most cancers found are smaller cancers, and do not show any signs of spread to other tissues. Thus, chances for cure are excellent.

Screen Test is a program still under development, and we hope to make our mobile services available to a wide range of Alberta women over the next several years. The response of women in the communities has been very positive, and we are very encouraged by the results the program has had to date. As the program continues to develop, we will become more and more sure of being able to reach our goal of decreasing breast cancer deaths by 30 percent in our target age group.

The mobile unit of Screen Test will be in Elk Point at the Elk Point Municipal Hospital from March 13 to March 27, 1995. To book an appointment for Screen Test, call the toll free line: 1-800-667-0604.

Any community groups or individuals interested in volunteering their time to assist Screen Test should attend the Volunteer Training Session on March 7 at 7:00 p.m. at the Elk Point Municipal Hospital or call 724-2867.

Heritage tourism study consultants hired

By Robert Hendriks
BPHTSC Chairman

The Bi-Provincial Heritage Tourism Steering Committee, formed in March 1994 to organize an assessment and tourism impact study of 1885 North West Rebellion sites, interviewed two historical consulting groups in January, 1995 at Frog Lake, the groups being chosen from seven firms expressing interest in the project. The committee appointed Hilderman, Witty, Crosby, Hanna and Associates, a Saskatoon-based consulting group who prepared tourism plans for Cutknife Hill, SK, and Government Ridge, Battleford and whose historian is archival coordinator at the Diefenbaker Centre in Saskatoon.

The $20,000 study covering an area bounded by Elk Point, AB to Loon Lake, SK, will take a close look at Rebellion sites, some well-known, like Frog Lake and Frenchman Butte and other lesser-known spots such as Mt. Croix and Midland Cross near Heinsburg, examining details like land ownership, access roads, historic importance, and current physical state.

They will also provide recommendations for improving tourist presentation as well as fitting the sites into an overall tourist plan. Also included in their responsibilities is a search for funding sources for Phase II, an action plan based on the study's recommendations.

First Nations and Metis perspectives have been considered vital in this study and the two groups have been involved in project planning from the beginning.

Project funding is based on two $8000 grants from the Alberta Historic Resources Foundation and the Saskatchewan Heritage Foundation, as well as contributions from local civic groups, clubs and tourism organizations.

The study is expected to start in April, 1995, subject to heritage funding approval and will be completed in late summer of 1995. The present steering committee will then be disbanded and a new group formed to conduct Phase II.

Many communities expect to benefit from the study.

What's News at the Library

Friends of the Library, give yourselves a hand!

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

The Friends of the Elk Point Public Library wrapped up a successful fiscal year with a meeting last week. The Friends presented the library with a cheque for $8500, the proceeds from five successful bingos. On behalf of everyone who works at the library, uses the library and appreciates the library, I would like to thank the Friends for their fund-raising efforts. If you are a member of the Friends, give yourself a hand.

The Family Day holiday was an opportunity for me to do a little reading. One of the new books I read was The Hidden City by David Eddings. This is the third book in his series, 'The Tamuli,' which a sequel to his series, 'The Elenium.' Spearhawk and his friends work to rescue Queen Ehlana, Spearhawk's wife. Along for the ride are Ariel the Child-Goddess, the Troll Gods, and a few nasty individuals to make things interesting. Once again Spearhawk finds himself in a fight to the death with a god. Fans of Eddings will enjoy this one. The library also has all the books in 'The Elenium' and an unrelated series, 'The Mallorean.' You can also get the books in 'The Belgariad,' the prequel to 'The Mallorean,' through Interlibrary Loan. Fans of 'The Belgariad' will be pleased to learn that Eddings' next book is called Belgarath the Sorcerer and concerns the activities of the Old Wolf before the adventures of 'The Belgariad.' It is expected to be published later this year.

Library registrations for 1995 are proceeding nicely with lots of renewals and lots of new memberships. If you had a membership last year and haven't renewed, remember that your 1994 membership expired Dec. 31, 1994. If you have renewed you should have a little yellow sticker on your card. If your family membership has been renewed but you haven't received the sticker, come into the library and get stuck. New memberships are also welcomed. All memberships are good for one full year from date of purchase. Don't forget that your library card and number will remain the same so bring it in when you renew.

THANK YOU

MILLER, Andrew (Andy)

The family of the late Andy Miller wish to express heartfelt thanks to Dr. McNeilly and the staff of the Elk Point Municipal Hospital and the Parkview Nursing Home for the exceptional care that Andy received during his stay there.

Special thanks to Rev. Norman Hartley, all the pallbearers, also John Boy's of St. Paul for the excellent meal that was served in the Rec. Centre after the service.

Also thanks to all those who attended the church service and had lunch with us after.

A very special thanks to John and Caroline Yewchin for the compassionate assistance and support.

Elks lead series 2 - 1

Elk Point Elks have a 2 - 1 edge over Marwayne Comets, after three games in their best-of-five quarter-final playoff series. The next game in the series is slated for tomorrow evening at 8:30 in Marwayne, with a fifth game, if necessary, in Elk Point on Thursday at 8:30. The winner of this series will go on to compete against the winner of the Vermilion Senators - Kitscoty Monarchs series in the Sask-Alta League's semi-finals.

Elks 7 - Comets 4

The Elks started off the series at home last Wednesday, with Marwayne getting two early first period goals. The Elks caught up 10 minutes after the second of these, with goals by Tyson Stafford, assisted by Bobby Houle, and by Rick Austin, assisted by Cory Laboucane and Houle. Mike Boratynec gave the Elks the lead with 1:28 on the clock, assisted by Blair Halfe.

Boratynec and Halfe did it again a minute and 37 seconds into the second period, with a second assist by Sheldon Cardinal. Derrick Keller, assisted by Allan and Kerry Loughran, gave the Elks a 5-2 lead 2 1/2 minutes later. Marwayne scored their third goal soon after mid-period, and were answered by a goal by Blair Halfe, assisted by Brian Halfe.

Tyson Stafford scored the Elks' final goal of the game 2 minutes and 20 seconds into the third period, giving the home team a 7-3 lead that persisted until just 32 seconds remained on the clock, when Marwayne scored for a final score of 7-4.

Elks 4 - Comets 3

The exciting second game of the series was played in Marwayne Saturday night, with the Comets scoring the only goal of the first period. The second period saw one goal for each team, with Rick Austin scoring the Elks marker off assists by Kerry Loughran and Jon Olson.

Brian Halfe tied it up for the Elks 6 1/2 minutes into the third period, but was quickly answered by the Comets. Brian Halfe again put the Elks on equal footing, with a power play goal assisted by Blair Halfe.

The game went into overtime, with Cory Laboucane scoring the tiebreaker off an assist by Jon Olson.

Comets 7 - Elks 4

Sunday night's game in Elk Point saw Elk Point take an early lead, with goals by Bobby Houle, assisted by Billy Halfe and Brad Colville, and by Billy Halfe, assisted by Blair and Brian Halfe, in the first 10 minutes. Marwayne scored twice 24 seconds apart to tie the score by the end of the period, and took the lead five minutes into the second with their third goal. Elk Point scored two, the first by Jon Olson, assisted by Cory Laboucane and Sheldon Cardinal, the second by Billy Halfe, assisted by Brian Halfe and Rick Austin, to put the Elks ahead 4-3 at the end of the second.

The third period saw the Elks retain their lead for just over 9 minutes, until the Comets experienced a 44-second power surge and slammed home three unanswered goals. A final Marwayne goal with 2:01 left on the clock clinched the win for the Comets.

F.G. Miller Seniors in basketball finals this week

Both F. G. Miller senior basketball teams face heavy competition this week. Monday, as we were going to press, the girls were playing against Vilna and the boys against Saddle Lake in St. Paul Athletic Association semi-finals. The winners will play in the SPAA Finals Wednesday night.

Lakeland Basketball League playoffs are this weekend, with the girls' tournament in Elk Point starting with the host team playing Lac La Biche at 1 p.m. Friday, and the boys' tournament in St. Paul.

FGM girls are undefeated in both leagues this year, while the boys have lost just one game.

League winners will advance to Zones the following weekend, with the girls playing in Lamont and the boys in Ashmont.

THE ARENADEBT REDUCTION CONTINUES - this time, with a $1000 donation from the Elk Point and District Lioness Club. Holly Astill made the presentation to Arena Operating Committee Chairman Kevin Bjornstad. Another recent donation to the fund came from Ricerhill Enterprises Ltd.
